Board of Trade and Local Patriotic Societies Co-operating With Municipal Authorities-Attorney Dodge Asked to Explain a Reflection Upon

Arrangements are in progress for show ing proper courtesy and honor to the "old Liberty Bell" upon its arrival in Washington next Friday on its way to

The Commissioners yesterday sent a response to Secretary Kochersperger, a reference to whose letter appeared in Sunday's Times, in which he was informed that a committee composed of the Commissioners and representatives of the Washington Board of Trade and local patriotic societies will meet his committee and the bell at the station, where, it is inferred, suitable ceremonies will be had.

The board of trade, Mr. Kochersperger is advised, has tendered to the visitors an informal luncheon, which will be given at the rooms of the board as soon as practicable after their arrival.

The secretary is requested to advise the Commissioners whether or not the suggressed order of exercises will be agreeable to the committee.

The Commissioners authorized the statement last evening that he board of trade is co-operating with them, and that a committee selected by the board and one from the Sons of the Revolution and the Sons of the American Revolution, respectively, will meet with the Commissioners this morning at 10 o'clock to confer as to a programme.

What he was reported to have said was that on a certain occasion he "called upon the Commissioners when they were considering the question of garbage disposal and the Commissioners told him they would have to accept the plant of the Baltimore firm, because the firm had a large influence in Congress."

Commissioner Truesdell characterized both statements as incorrect—the publication as "unqualifiedly a misstatement," and the explanation as a "perversion of the facts."

An Open Confession Is Good for the Soull

We are going to prove a few things here this morning-right in front of the crowd; you know-just as well as we do-that there isn't a Clothing House in the city of Washington that has ever been known to cut prices in the BEGINNING of a new season-whether it be summer or winter; these are the times when prices are held right up to the highest notch. After the season advances a little—somebody jumps in with a "discount sale"-and from that minute the clothing trade is in a state of panic. Dealers get red in the face trying to demonstrate how much lower prices are during these reduction sales—than they were at the beginning of the season. We're going to be honest and admit that we have had these reduction sales-and they were GENUINE, too-but from tick of the watch-our store will have just ONE price -in the beginning-in the middle-and at the end of ALL SEASONS. Our new fall stock is here-it's better and bigger than any we have ever had before-and it is too good to be TRIFLED with. When we tell you that a suit or overcoat is worth $10 (and we've got stacks of them at this price) -you can bet your last dollar that it is as good as ten dollars will buy-ANY-WHERE. We have established a manufactory at 185 Market street, Newark, N. J. -every garment is union-made-when it's finished-it comes straight to US-we pay tribute to no jobber—no middleman. We night write a page—and fail to give a better reason why our prices are LOWEST. You may as well get a warmer suit nowas to WAIT. Your money back on demand. All garments kept in repair one year free of cost.

Judge Cole, before whom the matter was taken, said that in his own mind there was no reason why the ball should not be to tinued, but pending the decision of the court of appeals in Capt. Howgate's bail case, it was unadvisable to release the defendant. Mr. Dunan was therefore remanded to the custody of the marshal. A number of other alleged offenders were permitted to give bond for the same offense pending the decision as to the legality of the law by the court of appeals. They were remanded to the custody of the marshal as they surrendered themselves.

NAVAL ACADEMY CHANGES.

Radical Departures Suggested in the Superintendent's Report.

The annual report of Capt, P. H. Cooper, superintendent of the Naval Academy, made nublic vesterday, shows that during the year post tweaty-six cadets failed to pass the examination and were allowed to resign, no vacancies being caused by death or dismissal.

The superintendent urges that the limit of age permitted by law for the entrance of endets is too great, and it should be established between fifteen and seventeen years.

In view of the large-percentage of failures of candidates to pass upon re-examinations, he recommends the adoption of the practice prevailing at the Military A cademy, by which the consent of the a cademic board is necessary for re-examination.

He recommends also, that the selections for the various corps in the navy be made at the conclusion of the four years' course at the Academy, and that the surplus graduates may be then discharged, doing away with the additional coarse of two years affoat.
